

Fairfield Technologies Inc. Wins Subcontract with The Analysis Corporation (GLOBAL TAC) to Support FBI Investigative Data Warehouse

Chantilly, VA- October 14, 2009 --Fairfield Technologies Inc. (FTI) recently was awarded a subcontract to support The Analysis Corporation (GLOBAL TAC), the Intelligence Solutions business of Global Strategies Group (North America) Inc., (GLOBAL North America) on its multi-million dollar contract to provide operations and maintenance (O&M), user support and product development for the Federal Bureau of Investigation's (FBI) Investigative Data Warehouse (IDW).

FTI will provide services to support GLOBAL TAC to ensure that the IDW is maintained in a steady state, with minimal loss of service or performance degradation; optimize data relevance and assist users with complex and sophisticated queries; and use an agile development methodology to ensure IDW remains in excellent working condition.

"FTI is proud to serve as a GLOBAL TAC partner in supporting this crucial function of our Federal law enforcement systems," said Kenneth Fried, President of FTI. "FTI draws on its extensive data management expertise and mature agile development methodology to assist GLOBAL TAC's efforts to support the IDW."

The IDW is a repository of the FBI's intelligence and investigative information and is a critical component of its efforts to collect, manage and utilize information within the Bureau and numerous intelligence and law enforcement entities.
